

Literary Devices

Across

2. A sentence with more than one subject or predicate
 4. A sentence with an exclamation point
 8. An example of this is, "It's raining cats and dogs"
 11. A form of language specific to a region or social group
 12. Giving an object a human like description
 13. A sentence containing a subordinate clause
 16. Method of persuasion based on the authors credibility
 18. Comparing one thing to another with "Like" or "as"
 19. Similar close by construction within writing

21. A descriptive phrase or adjective
 23. A sentence with only a single subject and predicate
 24. The attitude of the writer
 25. Method of persuasion based on evidence and reasoning
 27. When a word or phrase is applied to something not literally applicable
 29. Occurrence of same letter or sound of adjacent or close words
 31. Over exaggeration
 32. A sentence with two plus independent clauses and one or more dependent clauses

Down

1. A particular way of looking at a matter
 3. A contradicting figure of speech
 5. Bang, boom, snap, and pop.

6. A question asked to prove a point rather than getting an answer
 7. A move forward in time sequence
 9. A sentence asking a question
 10. Two things placed close together with a contrasting effect
 14. Words left out...
 15. Sentence that states a fact or argument ending with a period
 17. Attempt to win an argument through emotional reaction
 20. Relates to the order at which time occurs in a piece of literature
 22. Play on words
 26. When time goes backwards to show a past event
 28. A situation that can be compared to something else in significance
 30. A logically unacceptable conclusion