

Name: _____

Date: _____

Las Ciudades de España

Across

2. the city that contains Kilometer 0 in the Plaza del sol.

6. a city in the region of Andalucía that houses a giant cathedral that used to be a mosque - it has a very distinctive design with red and white arches throughout.

7. city where the Running of the Bulls happens every year in July.

10. small northern coastal city known for excellent culinary creations, especially small "pintxos" (northern term for "tapas").

13. the city in Galicia at the end of the spiritual pilgrimage called "el camino de..."

14. city in Basque Country (a region) that hosts the Guggenheim museum with a giant floral dog.

15. city in the region called Extremadura where you can find the ruins of a theater built and used by the Romans.

16. the city where Antonio Banderas (famous actor) is from and where the rich and famous vacation in Spain.

17. where you can find the world's 3rd largest cathedral (it's also the largest gothic style cathedral).

18. this is not a city, but rather the name of a region of coastal cities and towns along the southern coast of Spain where some of the best beaches can be found.

Down

1. a city known for its reputable university - the oldest University in Spain and one of the 4 oldest western Universities in the world.

3. a medieval city on a hill in the center of Spain, known for swordsmiths.

4. where you can visit an enormous Arabic palace called La Alhambra.

5. home of astounding architecture, an internationally famous soccer club, and the host city for the 1992 Olympics.

8. here you can see an aqueduct that was built by the Romans and was still functioning until the 1950s!

9. coastal city where you can see some extremely modern architecture in "la ciudad de bellas artes" and where the celebration of Las Fallas is held each year.

11. this city is on the Iberian Peninsula (where Spain and Portugal are) but it actually belongs to the United Kingdom.

12. Capital of the provinces of the Canary Islands, owned by Spain. Off the coast of northwestern Africa.