

Name: _____

Date: _____

American Revolutionary War

Across

2. This is someone who is devoted to Britain. A colonist of the American Revolutionary period who supported the British cause. This is important because it shows that they this type of person puts all their hard effort to achieving a goal.

5. This battle fought on April 19, 1775 when tensions had been building for many years between residents of the 13 American Colonies. About 700 British troops arrived in Lexington and came upon 77 militiamen that gathered on the town green. This is important because when shots were fired, eight militiamen lay dead and nine were wounded when the smoke became clear.

6. This was an attack on Germans on Christmas day. This battle consisted of the Princeton and Trenton. This is important because they ended up taking over 2,000 prisoners that were from Manhattan.

7. A colonial "dockhand" at the time of the tension in Boston. This person was one of the five murdered in the Boston Massacre. This is important because he was the first casualty of the American Revolution.

8. This treaty ended the American Revolution. This treaty was signed by representatives of King George III and of the United States of America. This is important because not only did they free the thirteen colonies, it also established the boundaries between the United States & Britains.

9. This act was a series of acts that were passed in the beginning of 1767. These acts had indirect acts such as: glass, lead, paint, paper, etc. This is important because they had wealthy products.

10. This battle was the last battle of the American Revolution. This battle took place in Virginia. This is important because it triggered the point of final surrender for British soldiers.

11. This was a war between the Colonists and the British. The reason for this battle was that they wanted France on the colonies' side. This is important because they fought for who they wanted.

Down

1. This was a winter camp that had veterans training for the battle. It took a few miles away from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. This is important because they had a higher chance of winning the battle.

3. This event took place on December 16, 1773. This was a protest of the British Parliament in 1773. This is important because both the American & British followed this particular type of party.

4. This was a 50 page pamphlet that described the revolt against the king. This was made because they wanted to break the colonies away from Britain. This is important because they were able to be finally separated.