

Name: _____

Date: _____

Animal Behavior

Across

- 2. The ability to associate one environmental feature with another
- 3. The cognitive activity of devising a method to proceed from one state to another in the face of real or apparent obstacles
- 5. Process of knowing that involves awareness, reasoning, recollection, and judgement
- 8. The establishment of a memory that reflects the environment's spatial structure

- 9. Why a behavior occurs from an evolutionary standpoint

- 10. Associating a certain behavior with a certain outcome, and then avoiding/repeating said behavior

- 11. the modification is behavior as a result of specific experienced

- 12. A representation in an animal's nervous system of the spatial relationship between objects and its surroundings

Down

- 1. Associating an arbitrary stimulus with a certain outcome

- 4. A sequence of unlearned acts linked directly to a simple stimulus; they are essentially unchangeable and almost always carried out to completion

- 6. Why a behavior occurs from an evolutionary standpoint

- 7. An action carried out by muscles under muscular control of the nervous system