

Manufacturing Technology

Across

2. the product has been inspected and meets all of the manufacturer's standards and is ready for sale
8. a method of scheduling the arrival of materials at the time they are needed so that storage is not necessary
10. period in time, around 1750, started by the making of products in factories
11. the system of organizing manufacturing by giving separate tasks to separate workers or groups of workers
12. money left over after all the bills for making a product have been paid

14. those items expected to last less than three years

15. telling potential customers about products and services in such a way as to make them eager to buy

Down

1. series of work stations at which individual steps in the assembly of a product are carried out as the product is moved along

3. person or company that provides one or more materials or parts for a manufacturing company

4. the process of getting people's opinions about a product so that the company knows what changes to make or whether to sell the product

5. the increase in a material's worth after it has been processed into a finished product

6. a way of specializing in something that one was good at making, usually by hand

7. those items expected to last three years or longer

9. a payment made to a salesperson for business they have done

13. part of the manufacturing system model that shows sales and reviews