

Baseball

Across

1. the left part of the outfield
3. the scientific study of matter and energy
4. to study something in a careful way
7. one of the places a runner has to touch to get a point
11. the team's bench area between home plate and either first or third base
12. the player who defends the field nearest to the third base
13. the area on the baseball field that includes the four bases and the pitcher's mound
16. the item that you hit with a baseball bat
17. the right part of the outfield
18. the item that you use to hit the ball with

Down

2. the billboard type thing that helps keep track of the scoring for each team
5. the player who defends the field nearest to second base
6. the player who defends the field nearest to first base
8. the area on the baseball field behind first, second, and third bases
9. a slightly different version of something
10. the player who stands on the mound and the throws the ball in different styles
14. players who try to catch the ball
15. force or power; baseball players need this to be able to hit the ball and run the bases