

Name: _____

Date: _____

Chapter 12

Across

5. An intermediate sanction to provide a gradual adjustment to reentry under closely supervised conditions.
6. An approach that provides drug offenders the opportunity for intermediate sanctions, community treatment, and intensive probation supervision instead of prison time.
7. An intermediate sanction where, after a brief period of imprisonment, the judge brings the offender back to court and offers the option of probation.
8. Programs that adapt military - style fitness and discipline training to the correctional environment

11. Programs provided by religion based and church affiliated groups.

12. "not in my back yard"

14. Programs modeled after military style entry level training programs for youthful nonviolent offenders.

15. A sentence for a first time nonviolent offender who was not expecting a sentence.

Down

1. Prevention and treatment programs designed to promote the successful transition of offenders from prison to the community

2. A court-imposed sentence requiring offenders to remain confined in their own residence.

3. An approach in home confinement programs that ensure compliance through electronic means.

4. A program in which inmates are release to attend college or vocational programs.

9. Probation supervised by probation and parole officers with smaller caseloads.

10. A transition program that allows inmates to move from prison to the community in steps

13. A program that allows facilities to release inmates for paid work in the community.