

Veterinary Abbreviations

Across

1. An annual PE is recommended on all pets to keep them healthy. What does PE mean?
3. A "cc" is the same as an "ml". What is a cc?
4. Rx is an abbreviation for?
7. Medication can be given PO. How are these administered?
8. Four times a day treatments.
12. Surgical patients are given instructions of "Non Per OS" or NPO. What does this mean?
15. You are given instructions to clean AU. What are you cleaning?
16. Tx is an abbreviation for?

18. OTC medications can be purchased at a store or a pharmacy with out a prescription. What does OTC mean?

19. IV medications are usually given through a catheter. What is this route of administration called?

Down

2. 1ml is the same as 1cc. Both are units of measurement. What is an ml?
5. IM is a route of injection. What type is it?
6. There are 2.2kgs per pound. What is a kg?
9. Some injections are given ID. What kind of injection is this?

10. To give or administer medication twice a day.

11. OU medications are given in _____.

13. Temperature, Pulse, and Respiration.

14. Oz is a unit of measurement and not a wizzard.

17. Scooby gets his oral medications SID. How many times a day does the vet tech give Scooby his meds?

20. What is the abbreviation for a subcutaneous injection that goes under the skin?