

Drug Classifications

Across

2. Haloperidol falls into this class of drugs.
7. One of the newer antihistamine drugs that is less sedating.
14. One of many drugs used to decrease blood lipids and cholesterol.
17. This drug is an antihypertensive drug.
18. This drug is a muscle relaxing agent that begins with bac-.
21. The same answer as #12 Across.
22. Use as a first-line drug in emergency situations to bring back blood pressure.
23. Used to treat cardiac dysrhythmias.
24. This class of drug causes a patient to urinate.

25. Is considered an antihypertensive drug.

Down

1. A parenteral drug that is used in patients with diabetes and comes in short-acting and long-acting forms.
3. Used to treat a weak heart.
4. The acronym used for nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory drug.
5. This drug falls in the same class as dobutamine.
6. An antiseizure medication that has a strong animal as the beginning of its name.
8. The class of drugs used to treat patients for claustrophobia and stimulate gamma-aminobutyric acid receptors in the brain.

9. This drug is an antiseizure medication.

10. Used for seizures and begins with letter F.
11. This drug contains antiseizure, antianxiety, and muscle relaxant actions.
12. This class of drugs is very toxic and used to treat cancer.
13. An antihistamine drug that is commonly used for treating allergic reactions.
15. An antidiabetic drug that should be held before giving radiocontrast dye.
16. Used as an antidote to morphine.
19. This drug is used in cardiology as an antiplatelet.
20. A drug and vitamin used for treating cholesterol problems.