

Interactions Within Ecosystems

Across

3. Non-living
7. All of the different population that live together in one area.
9. In every community, each species has a particular place where it lives. This place is called its _____.
10. Interactions between the abiotic and biotic features of an area
12. Average weather pattern of a region.
15. If an animal can not adapt to its environment and therefore can not exist. We say it has become _____.

17. A group of individuals of the same species, living together in one place at one time.

Down

1. An inherited characteristic that helps an organism survive and reproduce in its environment
2. How many biomes occur in Canada?
4. Local conditions that change from day to day.
5. Large area with characteristic climate, soil, plants and animals.
6. In every community, each species has a particular place where it lives. This place is called its _____.

8. A scientist who studies the abiotic-biotic interactions within an environment

11. A group of organisms who can successfully reproduce among themselves

13. The Boreal forest is the largest biome in Canada. The dominant organism is:

14. Living

16. The biome that is cold, dry and treeless with less than 25 cm of precipitation per year is the _____.